PERSONAL STATEMENT

The personal statement is a critical element in the review of your application and will be used to assess your fit within the degree program and the University. Your personal statement should:

1. Briefly describe your goals. What are your educational and career goals? How do you expect your coursework will help you attain these goals? If you are unsure of your specific career goals, let us know what areas you would like to explore and how you think this degree will help you. If you have college or community service, employment or other experience that complements your academic or career goals, include it here.

2. Briefly discuss your college career to date. Do you feel that your grades accurately reflect your ability? If you've had to interrupt your college career or attend part-time in order to meet other responsibilities or obligations, describe them.

3. Discuss aspects of your life that may not be evident through a review of your academic record. You may include cultural experiences that would enrich the diversity of your academic program and the UW Tacoma community; social and economic disadvantages that you may have had to overcome; growing up in an unusual environment and how it affected you.

Your personal statement should be no more than 500-650 words. Content as well as form, spelling, grammar and punctuation will be considered. You should type your personal statement and attach it to your application. Please include your full name at the top of your personal statement.

Tips

Be specific. Don't spend your time telling us things such as "I've always wanted to attend this program because I want a degree" or "My whole family graduated from the UW, so naturally I want to be a part of the tradition." Such reasons are legitimate, but they aren't valuable to the process because they don't tell us anything distinctive about you. Let us know what makes you unique. Give details and specific examples. Be sure your statement clearly outlines your educational and career goals. Attention to content and expression will be considered along with the mechanics of writing.
